

NEW RULES FOR GRAPE DELIVERIES

All Grape Shipments (ie within SA and interstate)

Recent changes to wine labeling regulations by Wine Australia now require growers to keep a written record of all grapes supplied to wineries.

Your weighbridge receipt or cart note may be all you need to keep but it only if it includes the following:

- . grower's name and address;
- . receiving winery's name and address;
- . supply date;
- . variety and tonnes of the grapes supplied; and
- . GI (geographical indication) of the grapes (if you don't know your GI ring the Phylloxera Board, 08 8362 0488)

If the weighbridge receipt or cart note doesn't have this, you will need to keep your own record and supply a copy to the winery.

Records must be made within 3 days of supply and kept for 7 years.

You will find a sample grape supply record on the last page

Grapes Going Interstate

In addition, if you will be sending fruit to an interstate winery this vintage you need to comply with plant health regulations. Your first step should be to contact the winery to see if they are accredited under Interstate certification Assurance #33. If they are, you can apply to Biosecurity SA (BSA) to become an 'approved property'. This is a one-off cost of about $25/property. If the winery isn't accredited you will need to obtain a Plant Health Certificate from BSA for each load. This costs approximately $55/certificate, depending on what time of day you need the inspector on your property and how long they have to travel.

If you will be sending multiple shipments it may be worth your business becoming ICA-33 accredited business. This is a one-off cost of $280 plus a compliance audit fee of approximately $200.

Inspectors require reasonable notice and are only available during normal work hours. Forms and ICA details are available at www.pir.sa.gov.au/ica or ring (08) 8168 5208
